Confident Consultant Sells Above the Rest

By Danyell Taylor

Ms. Pat Jackson, founder of By God's Grace Realty, Inc. DBA Keller Williams Realty, is a certified Real Estate Consultant, licensed Accredited Buyer Representative and Multi-Million Dollar producer with over 14 years of experience in North Dallas.

"By God's Grace, your satisfaction determines my success" is the motto Jackson has built her many business achievements on. In 2002, having sold over $6 million closed volume, Jackson won the Gold Medal at the annual Keller Williams National Convention. Jackson has received several real estate awards over the years including Top producer, Top Lister, Most Closed Volume and she is one of the top recruiters in her home office located at 1310 W. Campbell, Suite. 122, Richardson, TX.

Jackson credits all of her success on her "leap of faith" from corporate America to Keller Williams Realty.

"It was a step for me totally on faith to leave," said Jackson. "This is my calling and that is comfort in a lot of ways to know that you feel what you are doing is what you were destined to do."

We Demand, and they Supply

By James Cline

"If there had been no poverty in Europe, then the white man would not have come and spread his cloth in Africa." Asante Proverb

"But I must own, to the shame of my own countrymen, that I was first kidnapped and betrayed by some of my own complexion, who were the first cause of my exile and slavery; but if there were no buyers there would be no sellers."

Ottobah Cugoana, 1787 Both quotes taken from, The History of Black Business in America, by Juliet E.K. Walker.

It seems the real law of supply and demand, when it comes to the so-called "Black Community," is "We demand, so you had better supply."

And, according to recent statistics, the original principles of supply and demand do not apply to our consumer group; we will pay the price no matter how high it goes, as a matter of fact the higher the better, and we don't seem to care how low or how high the supply goes; we want our stuff and we want it right now. What a dangerous twist on the basic law of economics. Too bad it doesn't also apply when it comes to Black support of Black owned businesses.

Can you imagine what suppliers of the Black consumer market must be saying as they hear and see us demanding they supply more and more stuff for our conspicuous consumption habit?

I can hear them laughing now, as they gleefully count their daily receipts from demand-crazed Black purchasers of 24-inch rims that keep spinning when their truck stops, Black tourists who are always willing to turn their money over for the finer things in life, such as top-shelf liquor, suites and meetings in hotels we don't own, and admission to events we do not control.

We demand everything and supply very little of our own material desires. We demand that Arab grocery stores in our neighborhoods sell us good meat and treat us courteously, but we fail to take advantage of the same opportunity they exploited by starting our own grocery stores.

We demand the latest designs for our nails, and decry the Vietnamese for taking over the industry in less than 10 years, while many of our sisters walk past the Black-owned nail shop on their way to do business with someone else.

We demand the best service and response from a Black businessperson, paying attention to every detail of their business practices, and yet we go into major department stores each week knowing we are being watched because we are Black.

We demand "concessions" from convention bureaus in exchange for our tourism dollars, and they supply us with everything we demand, such as sumptuous banquets fit for Henry VIII, chauffeur-driven limousines, and fruit baskets in our rooms.

In extreme cases we allow them to invest, say, $400,000 in pitching and wooing us, as was the case with the National Baptist Convention U.S.A., in exchange for a $21 million return on their investment. They brag about

For starters, Tyson to get $14M from King

will have to fight -- and fight often -- to get out of debt, despite the prospect of a $14 million payment from Don King to settle his claims against the promoter.

Tyson will drop his $100 million suit against King in exchange for the payment, but the former heavyweight champion will see none of the money. It will go toward paying some $38.4 million Tyson owes to various creditors, the Internal Revenue Service and his ex-wife, Monica.

To pay off the rest, Tyson's attorneys have laid out a plan in federal bankruptcy court in New York under which Tyson will fight seven times over the next three years. The plan is ambitious, if only because Tyson has fought only twice in the last three years for a total of about eight rounds.

For Some 585 Teens, 2004's Summer Of Fun Means Helping Dallas Area's Neediest Communities

ALPHARETTA, Ga., As most teenagers spend their summer break soaking in rays at the beach or lounging around the house, some 585 junior high and high school-age students will be hard at work on a two week-long community service project in the Dallas area.

World Changers an initiative of the North American Mission Board (Southern Baptist Convention), is bringing a group of students to several Dallas area low-income neighborhoods to paint houses, replace roofs, and provide hope to residents in need.

The organization and youth will be in Lewisville on Saturday, July 10-17, 2004 and in Dallas, Saturday, July 24-31, 2004.

"These students are showing the true heart of America," said Jim Burton, director of World Changers. "I think Dallas communities will be touched by their spirit and hard work."

This summer, more than 24,500 students nationwide will forgo summer jobs and instead pay $250, on average, to participate

Church embraces Multi-culturalism

By Danyell Taylor

As the Hispanic Spanish-speaking population continues to grow in North Texas, there is an increased need for multicultural ministries. Mt. Olive Church of Plano (MOCOP) is no exception. Pastors Sam Fenceroy and Reverend Pedro Santillan strive to uphold their mission of uniting the body of Christ by embracing change.

Pastor Pedro Santillan of Mt. Olive Church of Plano combines a unique blend of religion and language that represents his Argentine culture as well

"I feel welcomed and the Plano community receives us well."

Santillan has been teaching, counseling and spreading the word of God for more than 20 years, but the Lord has been calling him to ministry since childhood.

As a 9-year-old boy in Argentina, Santillan was approached by a street-corner evangelist who changed his life. The young Santillan witnessed the goodness of God at a very early age.

"It was a different culture," said Santillan. "Men brought church to the streets and street corners."

National Hip-Hop Summit set for St. Louis on Aug. 22

By: Bill Beene Special to the NNPA from the St. Louis American

Vote! That's the rap that Ben Chavis and Russell Simmons hope to flow into the minds of the "hip-hop generation" through their Hip-Hop Summit Action Network from 12- 4 p.m., Friday, August 22 at America's Center.

The Summit will be part of the 2004 Missouri Black Expo.

According to Chavis, president and CEO of the Hip-Hop Summit Action Network, 12 million "hip-hoppers," 18 to 35-years-old have registered to vote in the last three years.

The voting rate for African Americans also increased by four percent to 57 percent in the 2000 election, according to the U.S. Census Bureau.

The organization has held 22, "incident-free" summits in the United States, but the former NAACP national president said they will convene what will be one of the largest and most impacting hip-hop summits ever in St. Louis.

The emphasis will be on voting in November's election.

"This is the first time we're having a summit in the context of a Black expo," Chavis said.

"And we know one of the largest gatherings in the state of Missouri is in fact the Missouri Black Expo, so we are very pleased to convene the St. Louis Hip-Hop Summit amidst the Missouri Black Expo."

Since St. Louis-based Anheuser-Busch is a major sponsor of the Hip-Hop Summit Action Network (and a 13-year sponsor of the MBE), Chavis said it should be one of the best.

"Anheuser-Busch has been our national partner and I want to publicly thank Anheuser-Busch for its past and continuing

Golf for a Cure Raises Funds to Fight Cancer in America

Prince & Associates, was host to executives from across the United States and several foreign countries, and indeed the globe, as approximately 400 guests participated in 3-days of golf and networking at the Second Annual Prince & Associates Charity Networking Golf and Tennis Tournament, held last month at Heritage Ranch Golf and Country Club, Fairview, Texas.

Doubling its size in the second year, the Second Annual Prince & Associates Charity Networking Golf and Tennis Tournament raised approximately $30,000 to help fight cancer in the United States, where approximately one out of every two American men and one out of every three American women will have some type of cancer at some point during their lifetime.

Sponsors to this year's event included telecommunications and other industry leaders (see complete listing of sponsors below). The Prince & Associates Charity Networking Golf and Tennis Tournament have quickly become the largest single golf event devoted to the telecommunications industry and related convergence industries in the United States. Clovis L. Prince, President and CEO, Prince & Associates states "the event provides a unique opportunity for executives in the industry to meet informally and exchange ideas on their evolving businesses."

Industry leaders speaking at the event included Thomas M. Marvaso, Senior Vice President, Parsons Commercial Technology Group, Inc., J. Allen Kibler, Jr., Senior Vice President,

MACTEC, Inc., Martin G ("Marty") Travers, President, Telecommunications Division, Black & Veatch Corporation, Gowton Achaibar, Executive Vice President and General Manager, North America, Ericsson, Inc., Fredrik A. ## THE TRUTH CLINIC America Seeks Forgiveness Without Contrition

The statement President Bush issued at his news conference following the European Union reconciliation meeting in Ireland was as naïve as his May 2003 "end of war" pronouncement aboard the aircraft carrier Lincoln. "I think the bitter differences of the war are over. The United States and the European Union share a common commitment in our support for the Iraqi people ... as they build a free, secure, democratic, unified, and prosperous country, at peace with itself, its neighbors, and with the wider world."

In his haste to get the Iraq political anchor off his back the President is now begging the European Union, the United Nations, NATO, and other world leaders for help in dealing with the Iraqi quagmire. Mr. Bush in his infinite wisdom stated, "NATO has the capability, and I believe the responsibility, to help the Iraqi people defeat the terrorist threat that's facing their country."

But just eighteen months ago the President along with his inner circle minions was waging a tactless, non-diplomatic, arrogant campaign that publicly humiliated those same organizations and world leaders as irrelevant and unnecessary to America's pre-emption war policy. There would be no discussion, no negotiations, and no supporting evidence - just the President's edict "you are with me or you are against me."

Down in the depths of this childlike philosophy Mr. Bush has discovered a rationale that not only absolves his administration of responsibility for the horror perpetrated by his misdirected war but also ordains tossing the resultant Iraq hot potato over to the international community for resolution. Somehow it has not dawned on him or his advisors that 'forgive and forget' does not relieve the people's bitter experience related to the dishonesty and violence at the hands of America. If the anger, humiliation and shame borne by the victims are not mitigated the likely result will be a continuance in the form of violence (terrorism) against other people. By asking victims to forget America is asking them to ignore their suffering or worse America is indicating their suffering has no meaning.

Now, as America races to divest itself of the war albatross and grovels before the same nations that it previously ignored there is still no indication of the slightest contrition.

The perpetrators of violence must acknowledge the injury caused before asking for forgiveness or seeking reinstatement into the world community. Forgive and forget is a convenient crutch for oppressors who are anxious to forget the pain and suffering they have caused.

By calling for instant reconciliation America is not demonstrating to the victims an understanding that forgiveness takes time. The survivors of the war violence need to experience justice and some form of restitution by which the perpetrators of violence acknowledge responsibility for their callous actions.

While America conducts a war to expand democracy around the world, the world is becoming increasingly distrustful of the democracy being sold. If democracy in the Middle East is so important why does America spend so much money propping up dictatorships in countries like Saudi Arabia, Turkey, Egypt, Jordan that we are friendly with?

A group of distinguished scholars from the American Political Science Association recently released their report on Inequality and American Democracy. They found that "The voices of American citizens are heard unequally. The report presents facts that support what many of us have experienced: A government that should be helping ordinary citizens rise up tends to help the privileged few who are already on top.

Too many Americans betray their obligation to be good citizens by turning a deaf ear and a blind eye to the irresponsibility of a president who continues to bring dishonor to the high office that he has sworn - in the name of God - to uphold.

America's Messianic myth currently propagated by the Bush administration (that God has sent him to save the world for democracy) illustrates profound arrogance. And until we change this hypocritical charade of promising democracy and freedom while delivering oppression, violence, suffering and death we will never convince the world that our democracy is an acceptable alternative for political, social and economic change.

Now is the time to make amends. The administration's arrogance and hypocrisy prevents the White House speechwriters from incorporating the humbling words "I've made a mistake and I'm sorry?"

The President should throw out the hawkish calah that has played this evil game of deceit, offer restitution to the countries America has wronged and take meaningful steps to deliver the best of America to the world instead of the worst.

That is the road to Christian forgiveness.

Beloved Plano Matriarch, Library Founder dies Gladys Harrington 1901-2004

Mrs. Gladys Harrington, well known in the Plano community and loved by so many, passed away Sunday evening in her Plano home.

Harrington who was 103 years old is credited for establishing the Plano library system. Along with the Federation of Church Women she set up the first lending library to share with the community one of her favorite pastimes, reading.

"She will be missed in the community," said John Hightower, Advisory Board member of MON-The Gazette.

Hightower says he came to know Mrs. Harrington while working to help get the library built. Mrs. Harrington had recently celebrated her birthday at Henry Gentry's ice cream parlor and the celebration had to be split because so many wanted to wish her well.

Born Gladys Haggard Bishop, Harrington lived in Plano ever since she was 16, when she and her family moved to the area. She married Fred Harrington fresh out of high school and together they tended and managed their farm, while raising two sons, Connor and Joe.

Mrs. Harrington was a member of several civic and service organizations, including the Collin County Republican Party in which she has been called a "pioneer."

She was honored last year as a Collin County Community College inaugural Living Legend where she also received an honorary associate of arts degree.

MON-The Gazette Advisory Board member Ben Thomas remembers Mrs. Harrington as having been a great friend of the family.

"She was a wonderful person to talk to and always had interesting things to say. We would share our thoughts on Plano and the way things were changing," Thomas said.

Although Mrs. Harrington survived her immediate family, her survivors include, granddaughters Connie Cuolik, Mary Harrington-Ross, Cynthia Harrington of Blue Ridge, grandson Fred Harrington of Plano, great granddaughter Emily Eikenburg of New York; great-granddaughter Laurel Morris of Blue Ridge; nephew Billy Bishop of South Carolina and nieces Nancy Morian of McKinney, Mary Davis of Dallas and Betsy Turner of Allen.

Fireworks went on sale at midnight; Collin County officials offer safety tips

McKinney - Fireworks went on sale at midnight Thursday, June 24th in anticipation of Fourth of July activities, and officials in Collin County are urging residents to be responsible and play it safe.

In Texas, fireworks can be sold twice a year, from June 24th through July 4th and from December 20th through January 1st. Collin County's fire marshal is expecting approximately 55 retail fireworks stands to open this week.

The stands must be supervised by someone at least 16 years of age, and the vendors cannot sell fireworks to anyone under the age of 12. Additionally, smoking or open flames are prohibited within 10 feet of the stand.

Most cities in the county have specific ordinances that prohibit the sale, possession and discharge of fireworks within the city limits. Some of the larger cities with populations over 5,000 can also extend that ordinance and the enforcement into their ETJ.

There are certain regulations that persons must follow when igniting fireworks in the county. A person may not:

(1) explode or ignite fireworks within 600 feet of any church, a hospital other than a veterinary hospital, an asylum, a licensed child care center, or a public or private primary or secondary school or institution of higher education unless the person receives permission in writing from that organization;

(2) sell at retail, explode or ignite fireworks within 100 feet of a place where flammable liquids or flammable compressed gases are stored and dispensed;

(3) explode or ignite fireworks within 100 feet of a place where fireworks are stored or sold;

(4) ignite or discharge fireworks in or from a motor vehicle

(5) place ignited fireworks in, or throw ignited fireworks at motor vehicle;

(6) conduct a public fireworks display that includes fireworks 1.3G unless the person is a licensed pyrotechnic operator;

(7) conduct a proximate display of fireworks that include fireworks 1.3G or fireworks 1.4G as defined in NFPA 1126 Standards for the Use of Pyrotechnics before a proximate audience unless the person is a licensed pyrotechnic special effects operator and has the approval of the local fire prevention officer.

Violations of the above section 1-5 are Class C Misdemeanors and 6-7 are Class B.

In recent years, fireworks have been one of the leading causes of injuries serious enough to require hospital emergency room treatment. They can cause severe burns, fractures, scars or even death.

To help celebrate the holiday safely, the Consumer Product Safety Commission and the National Council on Fireworks Safety offer the following tips:

- Always read and follow label directions
- Always have an adult present
- Only buy from reliable fireworks sellers
- Only ignite fireworks outdoors
- Be sure to have water handy
- Never experiment or attempt to make your own fireworks
- Light only one at a time
- Never re-ignite malfunctioning fireworks
- Never give fireworks to small children
- Store fireworks in a cool, dry place
- Dispose of fireworks properly
- Never throw fireworks at another person
- Never carry fireworks in your pocket
- Never shoot fireworks in metal or glass containers.

"Although these are excellent tips, the best thing to keep in mind is that truly safe fireworks don't exist," says Collin County Fire Marshal Steve Deffibaugh. "My office will be out each night from the 24th through the 4th, doing fireworks stand inspections and assisting the sheriff's office on calls relating to fireworks."

until 1:00 a.m. The carnival only will be open on Monday, July 5 from 5:00 p.m. until 11:00 p.m.

City Hall will be open during normal business hours the week of Star Spangled Fourth. However, the parking lots at City Hall and the Granville Performing Arts Center will be closed Sunday, June 27 through Monday, July 5. The Senior Activity Center will close early Thursday, July 1, at 5:00 p.m.

Parking will be available at the DART Transit Center (Walnut and Fifth Streets) with shuttle service provided from 7:00 a.m. to 6:00 p.m., Monday through Friday, June 28 through July 2, at the north end of the lot.

Patrons of downtown-area businesses are asked to park at the DART lot as well. The shuttle will run between the DART lot and City Hall. Upon request, the shuttle will drop patrons off anywhere in the immediate downtown area.

The Town of Fairview and tournament participants also benefited, as Art for a Cure, a charity art show, was included for the first time in this year's events. Art for a Cure brought over 30 different Texas artists to Fairview to fill Heritage Ranch with paintings in oils, watercolors, and acrylics, and also present other artistic creations such as photography, jewelry, and sculpture. With a percentage of all sales made by the artist at this event being donated to the American Cancer Society, Art for a Cure provided yet another avenue in our drive to defeat cancer.

Plans are currently underway for next year's event, which was held recently at Heritage Ranch Golf and Country Club, Fairview, Texas.

Is the sky clearest on the day it is most blue?

While you ponder that thought we would like to announce that Minority Opportunity News, Inc., formerly a Dallas based renaissance community tabloid, founded in 1991, has relocated to Plano, Texas and changed our name to MON-The Gazette. In addition to moving our offices to Plano, our editorial coverage has also shifted to encompass Dallas' Northern Corridor. The Northern Corridor is clearly the fastest growing region in Texas, if not in America. MON-The Gazette believes that the engine to continue this growth is the airport expansion in McKinney, which is the largest and most visible of many area opportunities. As always, and true to tradition, MON-The Gazette will be there carving a world of opportunity for those seeking to provide quality services. Should you dare to expand your quest for economic parity outside the southern region or just want to know what is going on up north-

Think of MON-The Gazette as your paper of opportunity!

Teen Soccer Prodigy Visits Dallas

By John Posey
BSPIN Newswire

Dallas—They poured into the Cotton Bowl, in a deluge, to get a glimpse of 15-year old soccer sensation Freddie Adu. The crowd included Cowboys safety, Roy Williams and thousands of club soccer players. Freddie Adu signs were evident throughout the stadium as more than 13,000 braved the gloomy weather to see Adu work a little magic.

And that's what they got, a glimpse, as Adu played only 18 minutes in D.C. United's 1-1 tie with the Dallas Burn. Adu left Dallas clearly frustrated with his current role on the team.

The transition has been more difficult than he expected. Adu said he's been taunted by opposing players and he is mobbed in malls.

"There's a lot of outside pressure," said Adu. "I put a lot of pressure on myself."

Adu has never sat on the bench. His emotions boiled and executing a passing game when he entered in the game's 76th minute. "All I do is go play defense."

Adu, who makes $500,000 a year and has an endorsement contract with Nike, is the boy wonder of American soccer. Many compare him to Brazilian star Pele. D.C. United has tried to limit his minutes as he learns the pro game. He averages 41 minutes a game and has started five contests.

"I'm on the bench for 75 freaking minutes, then when I come in, everyone on both teams is trying to protect the tie, so what am I supposed to do?" asked the prodigy who turned down offers from the world's top soccer clubs to play close to home.

"But that's the life I chose," said Adu.

over in the post-game press conference as he vented to the media.

"Every time I come in, the game has already taken shape," said Adu who was relegated to playing defense

Coach Charlie Parker Visits West Dallas

Dallas Maverick's assistant coach, Charlie Parker (Front Row) and his wife Lori (seated next to him) have hosted a week-long, free basketball camp at the Lake West YMCA the last three years. Camp participants are selected by area churches and community groups. Camp coaches and staff (pictured) provide instruction.

support."

He said because the world's largest brewer is headquartered here, "we want to make sure the St. Louis Hip-Hop Summit is one of our best."

While Chavis didn't name particular artists scheduled to participate in the August summit, "they are the top artists on top record labels."

They are also effective in their efforts to give back."

"The artists want to give something back to the youth. When (youths) hear LL Cool J or Jay-Z, Beyonce, 50 Cent, Nelly, Twista or Kanye West encourage them to register to vote, they register to vote; to stay in school, they don't drop out."

When they hear hip-hop artists say don't get on drugs, stay away from violence, stay out of the criminal justice system, they do that."

"So this event, hopefully, will be a turning point in the lives of those young people who are fortunate enough to be in St. Louis on August 20."

The effort to increase the "hip-hop generation's" political activism inspired the Hip-Hop Political Convention last weekend in Newark, N.J. More than 3,000 people attended the conference which had the mission 'educate, motivate and unite young black Americans so they can elect more Black politicians.'

Bakari Kitwana, 37, author and co-founder of the convention, said the grass-roots meeting tries to "develop a political agenda for the hip-hop generation and identify potential leaders."

"Eminem's first album sold 1.7 million copies in the first week. We want to take those numbers and consumers and translate them into a concrete, identifiable voting Black," he told Reuters.

The Missouri Black Expo runs Thursday, August 19 to Sunday, August 22 at America's Center. Other MBE events include a job fair, music festival, health screenings, panel discussion on the state of black America.

Tom Bailey, founder, president and CEO of the MBE said he is proud to host the summit.

"I'd like to thank them for their decision to come to St. Louis to continue this important work," Bailey said.

"Their dedication to harnessing the cultural relevance of hip-hop music to serve as a catalyst for education advocacy and to address other societal concerns is both important and fundamental to the well-being of at-risk youth throughout the U.S. So we are pleased to have that effort here."

Chavis said young Black people today are the best generation of young people that America has ever had, but added "our young people need our best love, nurturing, embracing, support, encouragement - that's what the Hip-Hop Summits do."

Community Embraces Douglass Community Center Art Project

A grassroots art project in Plano has drawn Douglass community leaders to a group of Collin County Community College art students, led by Professor Rex Reece. Together these individuals hope to transform the community's focal point for meetings and events, the Douglass Community Center through a painted mural. The mural will be in the Center's game room. This inspiring community collaboration provides a learning experience for the art students and builds a great sense of pride and place for all who use the Center.

The Douglass Community Center, located in one of Plano's oldest neighborhoods is a growing multi-use facility with history, character and community commitment. Community leaders, along with Public Art Committee representatives and City staff want the mural to reflect the past, present and future along with education, sports and community service. The artists were given a collection of photographs of people using the facility to inspire their design.

On Thursday, July 8 this community masterpiece will be unveiled at 7 p.m. The public is invited to attend this celebration. The Douglass Community Center is located at 1111 Ave H in Plano.

entrepreneur with full-time responsibilities may present an obstacle for some, but Jackson welcomed the change and the challenge.

"Being a realtor is one of the careers you can have and truly blossom. Unlike in corporate America where there's always a ceiling, you have no ceiling in this business. Opportunity is limitless. You have to be confident that you can find that niche," said Jackson.

During the initial stages of establishing a career in real estate, Jackson explained, aspiring real estate consultants should follow two important steps.

First, beginner consultants should attend optional training sessions and second, they should get mentors. As a member of Keller Williams Realty Agent Leadership Council, Jackson proves to be an exceptional mentor to young consultants.

"Most consultants start out by selling, so I allow the consultants to go along when I'm showing property or I go over how to write their first contract," said Jackson.

Representing the Keller Williams Realty image with individual style sets Jackson apart from the rest. According to Jackson, it is the relationship built between the consultant and the buyer that makes her different from the others. Her combination of integrity and professionalism helps her identify, satisfy and negotiate the needs of clients and produce results.

"When they open the door to the house they love and I see their eyes light up and I see them start to place furniture-That's how I know. They really couldn't have done this without me," said Jackson.

According to recent research conducted by Keller Williams Realty more buyers are using the Internet to begin the initial stages of the home owning process. Jackson has seen an increasing amount of clientele via her web site www.patajackson.com, but the largest base of her business is from referrals from previous customers.

Jackson primarily serves the North Dallas area focusing on Garland, Dallas, Richardson, Lewisville, Coppell, Carrollton Allen, Addison, Frisco, Plano, Mesquite, Sunnyvale, Heath, University Park, Highland Park, Rowlett, and the company also serves Lancaster, Cedar Hill, Desoto, Irving, Arlington, Grapevine and Grand Prairie.

The bottom line, says Jackson, is that "we'll roll up our sleeves and work to make your home ownership dreams come true. I have a motto: 'Some people make a wish. I make it happen'. In the end, that's what my team is all about."

Keller Williams Realty is the 6th largest real estate company in North America, with more than 300 offices in the United States and Canada. Founded in 1983 in Austin, TX, Keller Williams Realty is renowned in the industry for providing outstanding real estate consulting training.

InterContinental Hotels Group Launches Incentive Program to Attract African-American, Hispanic and Native American Entrepreneurs to Hotel Industry

Atlanta, GA - African-American, Hispanic and Native American entrepreneurs can save money and receive free training to develop an InterContinental Hotels & Resorts, Crowne Plaza, Holiday Inn, Holiday Inn Express, Staybridge Suites, and Candlewood Suites hotel in the U.S.

InterContinental Hotels Group (LON: IHG) (NYSE:IHG) (ADRs), the world's largest and most global hotel company, has announced a new incentive plan to attract African-American, Hispanic and Native American developers to its already diverse family of owners and operators of InterContinental Hotels & Resorts, Crowne Plaza, Holiday Inn, Holiday Inn Express, Staybridge Suites and Candlewood Suites branded hotels in the U.S.

"While African-American, Hispanic and Native American entrepreneurs have been active in franchising, they have been less so in the hotel industry."

"Our industry and our company have many wonderful benefits and opportunities, and we seek to broaden this understanding and attract greater minority ownership through an ambitious program of education, training and financial support."

"Our Franchise Development Program will make it easier for African-American, Hispanic and Native American applicants to own and operate an InterContinental Hotels Group branded hotel," said Jerome Miller, vice president and chief diversity officer, Diversity and Inclusion, IHG.

Under the program, IHG will reduce the initial application fee to $10,000 and allow the property to retain usual royalty fees of five percent for the hotel's first 12 months.

Plus, an IHG affiliate will provide hotel operations training on-site and operations mentoring for six months following the hotel's opening. The company will also provide management training to the hotel operator at no additional cost.

To qualify under this program, the applicant entity must be majority owned and controlled by one or more African-American, Hispanic or Native American persons and meet all other franchise criteria.

The terms of the program are disclosed in the uniform franchise offering circular for each of IHG's brands. For additional information regarding IHG's Minority Incentive Program, please contact our Diversity Franchise and Inclusion office at 770-604-8181.

Texas Black Sports Hall of Fame Accepting Nominations

DALLAS- Nominations are being accepted for the 9th Annual Texas Black Sports Hall of Fame. The Texas Black Sports Hall of Fame Banquet and Auction, will be held at 7 p.m., on Saturday, November 13, 2004 at the Wyndham Anatole Hotel, 2201 Stemmons Freeway.

The Texas Black Sports Hall of Fame was established to chronicle the contributions made by African Americans who were born, lived, or played in Texas, to the history of sports. Each year ten athletes and/or coaches are recognized. Nominated athletes must have been retired from sports for at least five years and must possess exemplary sportsmanship and citizenship records. There is no retirement requirement for coaches. The general public submits the nominees, and a panel of judges makes the final selection.

Nomination forms may be picked up at the African American Museum, 3536 Grand Avenue in Fair Park Dallas, or by calling Jane Jones at the Museum (214 565-9026 ext. 301). The deadline for nominations is, Monday, August 16, 2004.

Former Dallas Cowboys Duane Thomas, Billy Joe Dupree and Everson Walls were among the list of inductees in 2003. The line up for last year included heroes and heroines such as Coach Hensley Sapenter, Ervin Garnett, Thomas "Jack" Bellinger, Clarisa Davis-Wright, Jolanda Jones, David "Tin can" Roberson and Calvin Davis.

Over the past few years the Hall of Fame has included legendary Dallas Cowboy Stars Tony Dorsett and Drew Pearson. The list of sports luminaries also included the late Dick "Night Train" Lane, NFL Hall of Famer; Rafer Johnson, who is a charter member of the U.S. Olympic Hall of Fame, the Hillsboro, TX, native competed in the Decathlon and won the Gold at the Rome Olympics in 1960. He went on to become an actor and successful businessman; Elvin "Big E" Hayes, the first player selected in the 1968 NFL college draft, he was a three time All American player at the University of Houston where he twice led the Cougars to the NCAA Final Four; Barbara Jacket, head coach of the 1992 Olympic women's track team in Spain; Ernie Banks, former player with the Chicago Cubs; and Bill Blair, former player with the Indianapolis Clowns, both were former Negro Leagues Baseball players.

In addition to the public recognition of these sports figures at the Banquet, the Hall of Fame's objectives are to collect and preserve objects documenting the history of the African American Texas athlete, create a permanent exhibition on the subject, and to develop educational programs for both children and adults.

Each year on the morning before the Banquet, the Museum presents A Family Day and Sports Clinic featuring current and former inductees. School age children and their families get to meet the athletes, secure photos and autographs.

Proceeds from the Banquet and Auction benefit the education programs and exhibitions of the African American Museum.

it, and a Black preacher says "This is good for the African-American community."

We demand reciprocity in the marketplace; they supply donations to our annual dinners. We demand fairness and equity from our tax dollars; they supply "economic inclusion goals" that never come to fruition — and we fall for it every time.

We demand better schools with all the bells and whistles and all the accoutrements of the finest prisons anywhere in the land; they supply padded construction contracts to their friends and relatives, sweetheart deals that contribute millions to their wealth.

Oh yes, they throw in the usual token contracts to the same token "minorities," and the beat goes on.

A Black construction company owner told me the situation in his city was so terrible that if Jesus paid them a visit He would think White folks were our slaves, because they were doing all of the work in Black neighborhoods.

That's funny, but the same would be true where I live as well. We have a billion-dollar school construction program in progress, and you can count on one hand the Black workers on the individual construction sites — right in the middle of 100 percent Black neighborhoods.

Yes, we demand and they supply. Our demands are so vehement and urgent that we have become personified profit margins, across the board, for virtually every business area in this country.

We demand to be served, and we are being served up by our timid, weak, greedy, so-called leaders. We demand to be treated properly, but oftentimes mistreat one another. We demand all of the things we need and want in life, but we are reluctant to supply those needs and wants to ourselves.

Other groups in this country are using us to create wealth for their families by supplying what we demand. Black people must decide to get on the supply side of this economic equation; we must decide to take control of more of our resources and stop selling them to the lowest bidder.

We must decide to create a demand for our supplies by supporting our own businesses and growing them into bigger and better businesses.

There is no reason, except for lack of will, that Black folks could not have several billion-dollar businesses. How? By simply supplying more of our demands for food, clothing, shelter, and all the niceties of life that along with them.

Rain & Freeze Sensors: Smart. Convenient. Mandatory.

If you have an automatic sprinkler system, city water ordinance guidelines require that it is equipped with a rain and freeze sensor by January 1, 2005. You'll save money by eliminating unnecessary water use, decreasing wear on your system, and avoiding the repairs that may be needed if your system freezes. And, when the temperature drops this winter, your sensor will help prevent the hazards caused by sprinklers operating in freezing weather. So contact your irrigation professional to make sure you are in compliance as soon as possible.

For a limited time, the City of Dallas will offer rebates to offset a portion of the cost of installing the required sensors.

There are two options available for rebates:

- The customer can receive a credit of up to $50 on their Dallas Water Utilities bill, if the unit is installed by a professional or
- The customer can receive a free rain and freeze sensor if they choose to install it themselves

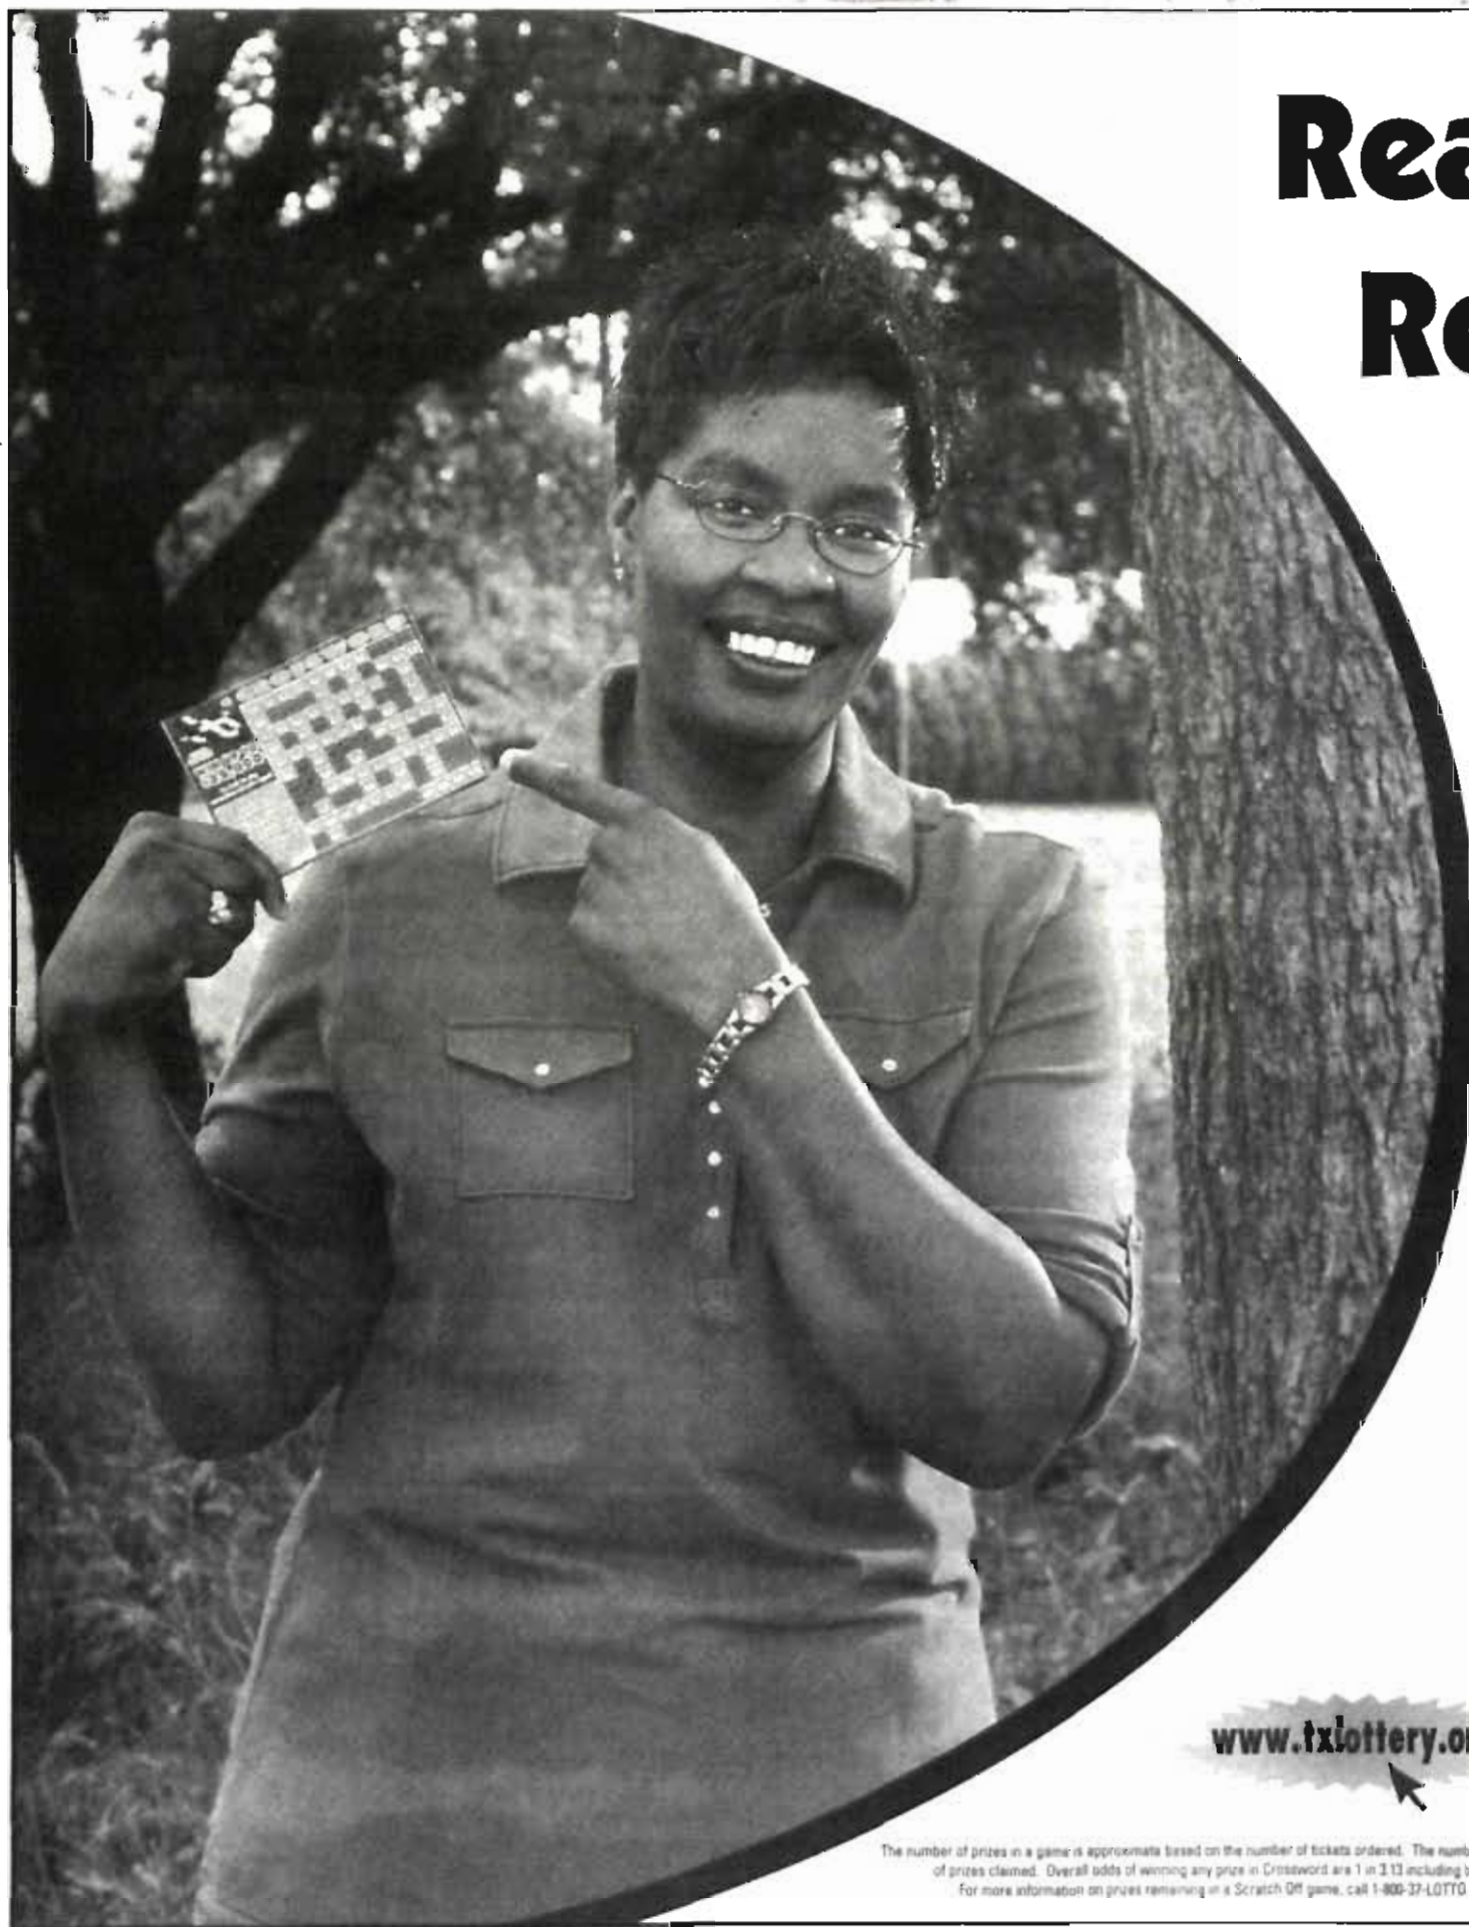

To qualify for a rebate, you must:

- Receive a water bill from Dallas Water Utilities; and
- Confirm that your irrigation system was installed before January 1, 2002 (all systems installed after January 1, 2002 are currently required to have the devices.)

For additional information or a rebate application, call us at 214/670-3155. Or go to our website at www.savedallaswater.com

Black Independent Film Festival

By Vivian Fullerlove

More than twenty-five hundred filmmakers and film enthusiasts turned out for the inaugural Juneteenth Film Festival held at Dallas' Black Academy of Arts and Letters. The six day festival featured the screenings of thirty films including short films, feature length films and documentaries, informational seminars for aspiring artists on the subjects of getting into the biz of independent film and getting their music onto a film's soundtrack. Some of the industry's most recognizable names were in attendance at the festival including Smokey Robinson, Bill Duke and popular Showtime at the Apollo diva Kiki Shepard. Events culminated on Saturday night at the festival's awards banquet which recognized the outstanding accomplishments of some of the festival's entrants. Adnrea Kalin of Virginia took home the award for Best Documentary for her film Partner of the Heart. The film chronicles the life story of Vivien Thomas, an African American surgeon who was a key player in pioneering the anastomosis of the subclavian artery to the pulmonary artery. The winner of the Best Short Film competition was Mateen Kemet with her film Silence about a young girl who is sexually abused by her mother's boyfriend. When she confides in her mother, she is met with disbelief and is kicked out of her home and forced to make it on her own. Melanie Oram was the recipient of the JFF Student Scholarship Award in the amount of $35,000 for her film Shook which tackled the controversial and widely talked about subject of the down low brother. A young woman is shaken to the core when she discovers that her husband is involved in a gay affair. Oram was also awarded the statue for Best Feature at the festival. Festival organizers say the first year of the JFF was both successful and rewarding for everyone involved, "I really felt the impact of all the events and activities on Saturday night, as I shook hands with student filmmaker Melanie Oram who received our JFF student scholarship award. It made me feel a sense of accomplishment in that the Juneteenth film festival had done something very significant and impacting that will contribute to building its own legacy as a direct and positive influence on the future of the black independent filmmaking community," says festival board member and President of Black Independent Film Distributors Regis Brown. For more info about the festival or how to get involved email info@juneteenthfilmfestival.com.

The first of those fights will be formally announced Tuesday at a news conference in Louisville, Ky. Tyson will take on unheralded Danny Williams on July 30 at Freedom Hall in a bout that will earn him several million dollars to help satisfy his debts.

Assuming Tyson, who will be fighting for the first time in 17 months, beats the British journeyman, he could fight again as soon as the fall. That could be against the likes of light heavyweight champion Antonio Tarver or Lamont Brewster, who holds the lightly regarded WBO heavyweight title.

"He wants to put the past behind him and believes he can be champion again," Tyson's manager, Shelly Finkel said. "And that would be a great story."

The other part of Tyson's story is well-known. The most feared boxer of his time, he spent three years in prison for rape and squandered some $300 million in purses over the years.

At the age of 38, he's broke and living in a small house in Phoenix, where he's in training. His two homes in Las Vegas are up for sale, with the proceeds already earmarked for the bankruptcy court fund to pay his numerous debts.

The settlement with King is a key part of solving Tyson's financial problems. If the bankruptcy judge approves, King will pay $8 million up front, with another $3 million in January 2005 and $3 million more in January 2006.

Tyson had pinned his financial hopes on winning an even bigger settlement in court on his claims that King stole some $100 million from him while promoting Tyson after he got out of prison in 1995.

But although Tyson's attorneys were confident in their case, they were concerned about how effective Tyson would be as a witness on his own behalf during a trial and whether King could win a jury over with charm.

For King, the settlement removes one more barrier between him and his former fighter. Since King controls many of the top heavyweights, there's a good possibility he will end up promoting Tyson fights again.

Tyson, who once vowed never to fight for King again, said in an interview last week that he wouldn't rule it out.

According to the plan filed Thursday in bankruptcy court in New York, Tyson will contribute the $14 million from King, an estimated $4.2 million from the sale of his two houses in Las Vegas, and $19.5 million from future fight purses to a fund to pay creditors.

Tyson's first contribution will be a $2.475 million payment on Aug. 4, followed by a $2.31 million payment next Jan. 5. The biggest payment from the proposed series of seven fights will be in January 2006 when Tyson pays $4.95 million.

The IRS is Tyson's biggest creditor, owed $18 million by the former champion. He also owes taxes in several different states, including $834,000 in Tennessee for his 2002 fight there against Lennox Lewis.

Under the plan, Tyson will also pay Monica Tyson $9 million, beginning with a $2.3 million payment when King makes his first payment. Monica Tyson will also get $750,000 from each Tyson fight.

Tyson also owes millions to unsecured creditors, who will be paid negotiated settlements totaling an estimated $10 million.

For King, the $14 million is the second big settlement he has made with an ex-fighter in recent months. In December he agreed to pay former 154-pound champion Terry Norris $7 million to settle a lawsuit.

Sister Tarpley

The Monday after Father's Day I was listening to a radio talk show and the question of the day was, "In your opinion do fathers get as much attention on Father's Day as mothers on Mother's Day?" The father that posed the question was commenting that he was comparing his gifts to his wife's. The general opinion was that mothers get the most attention.

I believe that a God-fearing man, deserves the same respect, love, appreciation and attention. He may not have done everything that you thought was appropriate, but as a God-fearing man he didn't do anything deliberate to hurt you. I know this because I once thought that my "daddy," Mr. Lloyd David Demus, was too strict, too mean and too demanding that I do my best; I rebelled big time. However, I wasn't crazy; my daddy didn't play! I minded my "P's & Q's"; I did what he told me to do. I am glad that I was too afraid to buck my father because I learned a lot about life from him; I later realized that my father and my older sister, Eloyd Demus Avery, were my inspiration to graduate from college. As my mother said, "Keep living."

My father was only 60 years old when God took him home; I thank God for everyday that he allowed my "daddy" to live. He was an easy going man, very slow to anger but he could become angry. He fully expected you to do what was right and he wanted you to do the best that you were capable of doing, notice that I said, "capable of doing" not what you did. He didn't believe in excuses! My father believed that you must do your best at whatever task that you were doing. He said, "If you are a street sweeper, then be the best street sweeper." I have tried to live by that code and I expected my two children, Jarrell Edwin and Sheila Tarpley Lott to do the same when they were growing up. My older sister, told me many times that daddy said, "You can do anything in life, if you want to do it bad enough." These words also inspired me.

Most of my major accomplishments in life, my "daddy" didn't get a chance to see them, but he did witness me, the first of his children, to graduate from college; I am a proud graduate of Prairie View A&M

Mr. Lloyd David Demus (1910-1970)

University and SMU. Other family members and my children (they were his first grandchildren to graduate from college) have since received college degrees. My father was there when my husband and I purchased our first home and for the birth of our two children. Daddy even put up a "clothes line" for me in my back yard when we moved into our home (he was a Jack-of-all-trades.) He asked me, "Why do you want a 'clothes line' when you have a dryer inside? All that's going to happen is that the birds will sit on it." I have missed family history that he would have been glad to share with me. When I learn something about my ancestors, I wish that I could talk to him; too late I realized what a great father I had; I never told him how much I loved and appreciated him.

I honor the memory of my father; I am proud and I praise God that he was my "daddy."

The following is something that was given to me long ago. It reminded me of my father's teachings; and it became "My Creed."

MY CREED

To live each day as though I may never see tomorrow; give the advantage, but never ask for it; be kindly to all, but kinder to the less fortunate; respect all honest employment; remember always that my life is made easier and better by the service of others; and to never forget to be grateful.

Be tolerant and never arrogant; to treat all people with equal courtesy; be true to my own in all things; and to maintain my own self-respect. Make as much as I can of my strength and the day's opportunity and to meet disappointment without resentment.

Be friendly and helpful to others and not show my temper or bitterness when I am disappointed. Live so that I do not fear reproach, misunderstanding, malice or envy from anyone.

There are times that I failed my creed and philosophy and perhaps I will fail again; but by these teachings I have tried to live; laughed, loved, suffered, grieved, found consolation and have prospered. By friendships I have been enriched and the home I have built has been happy. Anonymous shared his culture and his language reaching out to his native community in the name of the Lord. Using praise and prayer, the evangelists spread the word and encouraged others to participate.

"He asked me to read just one verse from the bible and before I knew it I was preaching on the corner," said Santillan.

Daily, the evangelists set out to save souls. Their dedication to the Lord stayed with Santillan even as he strayed away from the teaching of Christ during his adolescent years.

Tired of ignoring his calling while living the street life, Santillan returned to the street corner.

"I just grabbed my guitar and my bible," Santillan says. "And I began reaching out to my neighborhood."

During this time Santillan met his future wife Diana Santillan. As husband and wife the Santillans made a promise to each other and to God. They would serve God together and he would keep them together.

One day while spending time with the Lord, Santillan heard his voice. From that day forward he knew he needed to come to The United States to share his vision, but how? For weeks Santillan tried to quiet the voice inside of him while trying to make a way to get his family to the U.S. By plane, by train, by bus, he didn't know how to get to the place he needed to be.

While the Lord worked in Santillan's life, breaking down his resistance to follow his heart to the U.S. he delivered an answer.

"I had not told my wife about going to The United States or how the Lord had been working in my life, but she came to me. She said we must go to the U.S.

Pastors Pedro and Diana Santillan playing musical instruments in our car going from country to country, city to city preaching the word of God until we arrived in the U.S.," Santillan said.

In 1989 the Santillans arrived in Florida to begin their life in a new land with a new language. Initially, the language barrier presented obstacles for the Santillan's ministry vision. Faith in God kept both pastors from losing their vision.

"It takes faith, knowledge and action to be a servant of God" according to The Rev. Pedro Santillan of Mount Olive Church of Plano. Christians must step out on faith daily and know that God has an action plan for their lives.

The Lord led the Santillan family to MOCOP in 1997

when they relocated to Plano.

"Pastor Sam and I have the same spirit," Santillan said. "I didn't talk to him about starting Hispanic services he just approached it."

Pastors Santillan and Fenceroy participate in various activities to unite their members. According to Santillan church members will understand more about multiculturalism the more involved members become in both ministries.

Santillan's vision for his ministry resembles his childhood street corner experience. The church has the ability to reach people, give them knowledge and send them out to teach others about what the Lord can do in their lives.

As part of a developing community outreach program,

Santillan will begin a bilingual Christian day care which encourages children to take pride in their language and their culture. Additionally, Santillan will offer an evening ministry targeted toward the Hispanic youth. As productive citizens, Santillan believes the youth should give back to the community which has given them so much. The adult programs will include an education ministry educating men and women about the process involved in being a pastor. The program will last for 8-12 months and is intended to be a shortcut to becoming a minister according to Santillan.

Currently, Santillan and his wife hold services every Thursday and Sunday night.
